American bombing raids have "virtually isolated" the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi, U.S. military officials said Sunday.

Negro Vote May Be Pivotal In Trenton, N.J.

By JAMES H. RUBIN

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) —

Mayor Arthur J. Holland — who made headlines by moving to a racially mixed neighborhood —

seeks a new term of office Tuesday in an election in which the Negro vote could be pivotal.

The 47-year-old mayor says he might lose votes among "some white people" who consider him an integrationist, but he insists his record is the key issue and will withstand any "white backlash."

Holland also said he has heard rumors that some Negroes would oppose him because they regard his change in residence as a grandstand play to gain Negro votes. He discounted

this as "illogical and unrealistic."

"There are some Negro leaders who oppose me because I'm

SIGNAL FLARE

DROPPED NEAR

HOME BY MISTAKE

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—A

signal flare device that fell near

a Milwaukee home Saturday was dropped from a U. S. Navy airplane, the Navy said Sunday.

The enlisted man who dropped it thought the plane was over

Lake Michigan, a spokesman at

Glensville, Ill., Naval Air station said.

The slim five-pound device plunged to earth about 200 feet from the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Orville Carnitz.

The signal buried itself into the earth and spouted a white flame.

Police, unsure whether the device was a missile that might explode, ordered the area roped off until military explosives specialists could investigate.

The specialists, brought from

Fort Sheridan, Ill., quickly identified the device.

The Navy spokesman said the signal is used to locate sonar buoys.

Reinforced Cong May Come Out, Fight Soon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —

There is growing belief that the Viet Cong and more than 20,000 recent reinforcements from North Viet Nam will come out of hiding soon and fight.

They have been lying low for weeks. One reason, American military men say, is that the Communists have been critically short of supplies. They have been hurt by the repeated search-and-destroy sweeps by allied ground forces and incessant U.S. air strikes.

The Reds are thought to be regrouping and resupplying to take the initiative with the onset of the monsoon rains, when the weather prevents the Americans from providing ground forces with full-scale air cover and support.

The monsoon season, just beginning, runs into August.

Some military men argue that instead of a single massive offensive, the Communists will make many small-scale attacks.

The most probable targets are allied outposts along the Lao-tan and Cambodian frontiers.

Military sources say that

Cambodia is where some of the infiltrating North Vietnamese have joined Viet Cong units and sought sanctuary from Americans. Some branches of the

Ho Chi Minh Trail from the north end there.

In recent weeks, however, the United States has ruled out

Cambodia as a sanctuary. Artillery and infantrymen have fired across the border when attacked from Cambodia.

Mongolia Recognition Proposed

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike

Mansfield proposed today that the United States recognize

Mongolia, a Communist-controlled nation sandwiched between Red China and the Soviet Union in mainland Asia.

This would help ease international tensions, Mansfield said in an interview, and give the United States "a valuable listening post" between the two

Communist giants.

Mansfield's proposal came as he endorsed the call by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to

George S. McGovern, D-S.D.,

for appointment of a "blue ribbon" commission to reassess

U.S. policy toward Communist

China.

The Kennedy-McGovern

suggestions also brought these developments during the weekend.

Secretary of State Dean

Rusk, who testifies before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today, described the commission proposal as "an intriguing idea." But Rusk said for more than a year the executive branch has had a very competent group making an intensive study of these matters. He did not further identify the group. "They have been in touch with experts outside; they have visited universities and they have searched the literature for possible new ideas,"

Rusk said on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

He also said he has discussed

recently with President Johnson "the desirability of systematizing outside advance in the general areas of the world." He added: "I think it is very likely that we shall do this somewhat more systematically than we have done before."

—Vice President Hubert H.

Humphrey was reported actively supporting the proposal to create a commission. Although he was silent about Johnson's reaction, Humphrey's endorsement was viewed as indicating a willingness by the administration to explore new avenues in Asian policies.

—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-

NY., said Humphrey's support encourages him to believe such a policy review may material-

ize. "I certainly think we need to have a searching look at possible future relations with Communist China," he said.

Rusk disagreed with Sen. J.

Fulbright's view that Americans in Viet Nam have turned Saigon into a brothel.

The American ambassador to

Saigon, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrives in Washington late today for consultations on the situation in South Viet Nam. He is expected to meet with President

Johnson Tuesday or Wednesday.

Restraint Can Mean Strength

It is not the voice of the (turtle) dove but the shrill of the hawk that is heard in the land this spring. Most prominent among the latter in recent days has been Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Russell calls for a step-up in U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam to include "any and all military and strategic targets" that contribute to the war in South Viet Nam. The senator's "any and all" takes in Hanoi's port city of Haiphong.

"It is intolerable," he says, "that we permit the port facility to be used as a conduit for weapons and materiel for carrying on the war against the South Vietnamese and for killing American men when we have the power to prevent it."

Haiphong's sanctuary is indeed intolerable, but there are many intolerable aspects to the entire struggle in Viet Nam. The fact is, bombing or blockading that port would involve us in the destruction of, or at least the interference with, the ships of many nations — some of them Russian, some of them belonging to our ostensible allies, all of them, since no declared state of war exists, legitimately engaged in commerce under international law.

It is this consideration, presumably, not softness toward the Hanoi regime or callous disregard for the welfare of American soldiers, that has kept us from taking such an apparently logical step.

Nevertheless, Russell's statement will appeal to a lot of people, just as another made by him a few days before appealed to others. This was to the effect that if it began to appear that a majority of the South Vietnamese did not want our help, then we should pull out completely.

Both attitudes are of an either-or, black-or-white kind that render complex situations into simple equations.

But suppose we did bomb Haiphong and nothing happened — neither peace nor a wider war? What next? In what way would we then step up the punishment of North Viet Nam another notch to convince them we "mean business?"

This country is already expending a fantastic tonnage of bombs in Viet Nam. One writer calculates that the amount planned to be dropped during 1966 — nearly half of the total used against the Nazis in World War II — is equivalent to 13 750-pound bombs on every square mile of both North and South Viet Nam.

There could come a time when something like the law of diminishing returns begins to operate — when the spectacle of the mighty United States loosing ever-increasing fury against a primitive, agricultural country would turn the Communists into martyrs, even in the eyes of those who are in sympathy with our aims.

Without doubt the present level of pressure against the Reds should be maintained. But the temptation to hit everything that moves in North Viet Nam simply because we have the power to do it and because we are exasperated by the tenacity of the foe is something that should be thought about long and hard.

One can kill fleas with a sledgehammer, but it makes a mess of everything else as well.

An Unstable Element

It is the official position of the government of India, as expressed by Prime Minister Gandhi, that even though the food supply problem is difficult people do not actually starve to death. This is contradicted by news of starvation in some areas. Though some of the reports may be inspired by hostility to the present regime, it appears that hunger is widespread and that some Indians are dying for lack of food enough to keep them going.

However grave the situation may be—that is, whether it is more or less serious than is officially maintained — one point continues to be valid and must be kept uppermost in mind. It is that, unless the birth control campaign succeeds, India's population is going to outrun food supplies no matter what is done to augment them from outside sources and by increased production.

There is nothing complicated about the equation. Its elements are simple. Population is rising faster than food supply, and is expected to keep doing so.

The population of India stood at 439 million at the time of the last census in 1961. Population is growing at the rate of slightly less than one million a month. By next September India will have passed the 500 million level, and at the projected rate of increase there will be a billion people there before the year 2000.

It is dangerously superficial to conclude that this is India's problem, of only minor interest to the rest of us. The urgency of our government's doing all it can to encourage and support India's birth control drive can scarcely be stressed too much. An India of a billion people, with a food supply adequate for a far smaller population, would be a dangerously unstable element in the world community.

Dear Ann: Receives Through Giving

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: This may be one of the strangest letters you have ever received. I hope you won't think it is too strange to print because I suspect other mothers have the same problem but refuse to admit it.

My husband and I raised our four children to be independent and self-reliant. Everyone told us we did a wonderful job. As the children grew older I began to wish we hadn't done such a good job. I resented their independence. I wanted them to need me and ask for my advice. Before long I began to meddle in their affairs. I even tried to take over their children. After a run-in with my daughter-in-law I decided to talk to my doctor. He told me I had an over-supply of mother love and that I needed another baby — which was impossible at my age. So he suggested an alternative. He sent me to the welfare people and I obtained a child care license. I put an ad in the paper and within three days I had a 13-month-old baby boy. Two weeks later I advertised for a second baby. Now I have two little boys and I'm happier than I've been in years.

The mothers of these children say I am the answer to their prayers. I "know" they are the answer to mine. When these mothers take their babies away I will get replacements. There will always be mothers who must work and babies who need a mama-substitute. This is my specialty.

My relationship with my own children is better than ever. And I have no time for aches and pains or crying spells. How I wish I had seen a letter like this in your column five years ago. It could have saved me a lot of unhappiness. —SPARK REKINDLED

Dear Spark: What a beautiful example of receiving through giving! And your doctor deserves a standing ovation for coming up with the ideal solution to your problem. Cheers for him and hooray for you.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I took a job distributing phone directories. The job turned out to be interesting as well as educational. I wish everyone would try to deliver phone directories for just one day. They would have new respect for the postman and other delivery people.

It is shocking that thousands of residents don't display their house numbers either on the mailbox or anywhere else. How do they expect anyone to locate them? I had to enlist the help of neighbors in a great many cases. I asked one woman who had no number on her porch or mailbox how she got her deliveries. Her answer was, "They figure it out!" It seems to me that the burden should rest on the residents and not the carriers.

Please print my letter. It is the surest route to millions of eyes that I know of. —DISTURBED WITH PEOPLE
Dear People: The moment you finish reading this column, go outside and see if you could find your home if you didn't know where you lived. If your residence is not properly marked, run — don't walk — to the nearest hardware store or the five and dime. Buy some paint and a brush — or some metal numerals and a hammer and nails. It could be the most useful thing you did all week.

Confidentially to Tree Top Tall: Shakespeare notwithstanding — life is "NOT" a stage. You will not receive your satisfactions and rewards from playing to an audience. So what if he "is" a few inches shorter than you? What does it matter? If you let this marvelous man get away you are out of your ever-loving mind.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — This has become a golden age for theories — by people who don't have to carry them out — on how President Johnson should handle foreign affairs better. The critics have never got off his back.

Two of the most prominent of them — historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., — had their say recently. As usual, they not only wound up being vague but didn't see eye to eye, either.

Schlesinger made one of the harshest attacks on Johnson that anyone has attempted. In effect, he said Johnson lacked leadership in foreign affairs. He had worked with President John F. Kennedy and, briefly, with Johnson.

He called Johnson "gullible" for "passively" accepting the judgment of the State and Defense departments. On CBS's television program "Face the Nation" Schlesinger was asked what else Johnson could do since he can't go to Viet Nam.

Schlesinger said "we have elected a president because we think his judgment is better. President Johnson's trouble is lack of self-confidence that he does not appear to have."

He said some members of the American intellectual community do not so much question Johnson's "purposes" but fear that he is not in personal control of his government as presidents like Kennedy and Roosevelt were.

This was all vague. Schlesinger was just as obscure when, trying to say something pleasant about Johnson, he said he thinks Johnson's "instincts... goals... and objectives in Viet Nam are right."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Forcing Children to Eat
Can Create Real Problems

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
A mother asks whether she should force her small children to eat a certain amount of food. This would be unwise. A child who is hungry will eat without being forced. If he refuses to eat he should be quietly taken away from the table and not given anything except water until time for his next meal.

Refusing to eat is a device often used by children to get attention. On the other hand, forcing a child to eat a certain food he is not ready for may create emotional problems or a lifelong aversion to that food.

Q—The doctor says my 4-month-old granddaughter must have her entire blood supply changed. What could be the reason for this?

A—When a child is born with erythroblastosis as a result of RH incompatibility in his parents, it is sometimes necessary to give an exchange transfusion in the first days of life. If the erythroblastosis is mild and the child survives the first week without such a transfusion the danger from this disease is past.

In an older child this procedure is extremely rare, but it is sometimes done for hemolytic (blood-destroying) jaundice or for acute poisoning with aspirin or carbon monoxide.

Q—After every feeding I help our 2-month-old son to burp. Until what age must I keep this up? Will he give up having to be burped gradually or suddenly?

A — Babies vary in the amount they burp, the ease with which they burp and the age at which they give it up. In general, a baby will outgrow the need to be burped at about the time he is completely weaned from the bottle. But don't forget that even adults burp, especially after a meal eaten in a hurry or after a carbonated drink.

Q — My son, 12, has dry, scaly skin that looks like that of a fish. It itches and causes embarrassment because of its appearance. It is getting worse. What can be done for this condition?

A — From your description, I suspect your son has ichthyosis, a hereditary disease for which there is no cure. It is usually worse in cold weather. The underlying cause is a lack of oil in the skin. Your son should use a superfatted soap or a detergent soap substitute because ordinary soap dries the skin.

After bathing, he should apply a thin layer of lanolin or mineral oil to his skin. If a thyroid deficiency is an added factor he should take thyroid extract but only under careful medical supervision.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

We, the Women Working Wife Shines — Homemaker Burns

By RUTH MILLETT
"These working wives have certainly made things rough on full-time homemakers like me," writes a reader of this column. "Because most of the men who work with my husband have wives who also hold down jobs, my husband takes the attitude that I am a privileged character while he is the great provider."

"The fact that I do every bit of the housework — including the laundry — and look after a 5-year-old and a 2-year-old does not impress my husband one bit. 'I figured it up once and my working hours are 80 a week, compared to my husband's 40. But since, as he puts it, I don't 'have a job' and 'have plenty of time' he pushes all kinds of jobs that should be a man's responsibility off on me."

"The yard is my responsibility — mowing, watering, weeding, the works. 'I transact all the family business — write the checks, take care of any business letters that have to be written, and so on — which means that anything that isn't done or is not done right in a business matter is my fault. 'And on top of all that, my husband expects us to do all of our entertaining at home... because since I don't 'have a job' I have plenty of time for entertaining at home the couples who take us out for dinner. He thinks it is all right for them to take us to a restaurant because 'their wives work.'"

"When my husband asked me to marry him, he didn't say anything about my getting a job. But now he seems to feel that if he doesn't get all the work out of me that he can he's being gyped, because I'm not bringing home a paycheck like most of his friends' wives."

"What I'm wondering is—are there a lot of wives whose husbands feel like mine?"
How about it, you full-time homemakers? Are working wives making your life look easy by comparison in your husbands' eyes? And, if so, what have you done to try to show him that full-time homemaking is no snap?

American Menu Good Family Fare

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Ground beef, the backbone of many family meals today, can be shaped and seasoned and combined into many welcome and monotonous-free dishes. All you need is freshly ground beef and reliable recipes. Here are two:

Golden Treasure Meat Balls (Serves 4 to 6)
1½ pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cups soft bread crumbs
1½ cups chopped green peppers
1 egg, beaten
1-3 cup catsup
¾ pound Cheddar cheese cut into 16 ¾-inch cubes
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
1 package (7 ounces) spaghetti, cooked

Combine ground beef, salt, pepper, garlic salt, dry mustard, bread crumbs, green pepper, egg and catsup. Mix well. Shape into 16 meat balls, allowing about 3 to 4 tablespoons mixture for each. Place a cheese cube in the center of each meat ball and shape meat around it. Brown meat balls in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add tomato sauce. Cover lightly and cook slowly 20 minutes. Remove cover and continue cooking 5 to 10 minutes or until sauce is slightly thickened. Serve over spaghetti.

Versatile Meat Loaf—Shaped To Please (Serves 6 to 8)
1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground pork
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ cup grated carrots
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ cups soft whole wheat bread crumbs
1-3 cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape into individual loaves or pack into desired shape pan. This recipe will yield 12 meat muffins, using 2½-inch muffin pans; 12 1-inch thick patties, 2½ inches in diameter; 6 loaves, 3½x3½x1½ inches; a 1¼-quart ring or a 9x5-inch loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for the length of time required: Muffins, patties or individual loaves, 25 to 30 minutes; ring, 40 minutes; 9x5-inch loaf, 1 hour. Shaped individual loaves may be wrapped in bacon, if desired.

Snatch-And-Run Rescue Good Sport For Jet Set

By RALPH D'IGHTON
AP Science Writer

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP) — It's a little slow to be ideal under fire, but the Air Force's new snatch-and-run rescue system promises to be a great sport for the jet set.

Land and sea pickups of six men in the past three days averaged about 40 minutes per rescue.

That's a long time to advertise — with a light balloon necessary to the operation — the presence of a downed flier or a reconnaissance team awaiting recovery from enemy territory.

But everyone of the six volunteers jerked skyward from desert or raft found the experience so exhilarating that he wanted to do it again.

It's something like skydiving in reverse.

A long-range cargo plane — a Air Force, is part of its Aero-space Rescue and Recovery Service to pick up downed pilots on land or sea. The Air Force did not say that the system would be used in Viet Nam.

The cargo plane circles and snags the cable in a fork on its nose, just below the balloon. The impact severs the line and the balloon rises to a height of 4,500 feet, where it explodes.

The cable, locked in the fork, stretches and gently lifts the man into the air, then the cable is reeled in and the man is hauled up into the plane.

For a few seconds, while the cable is stretching, the man rises upwards slowly. Then, like a rubber band, the cable snaps back and the man streaks upward like a hooked fish jerked from a pond.

Opium Opens the Door for the Europeans

PEKING, 1860—Modern Arms Vanquish Medieval Men

Taiiping "Christians" Baptize China in Blood

Isolation (of China) having come to a violent end by the medium of England, dissolution must follow as surely as that of any mummy... brought into contact with the open air.
—Karl Marx

Two factors combined to humble proud China—her refusal to treat with Western nations as sovereign equals, and opium. China's attempts to stamp out the growing trade in the one product Chinese were eager to buy brought her into armed conflict with the British in 1839. The Anglo-Chinese War, or "Opium War," quickly revealed the superiority of Western arms and the astonishing impotence of the Manchu government. By the Treaty of Nanking in 1842, four more ports besides Canton were opened; extraterritoriality—the jurisdiction of foreign powers over their own nationals—was recognized; and the "most-favored-nation" clause required that any concession granted to one nation was automatically granted to all.

China attempted to ignore the treaty and, in 1856, Britain and France seized pretexts to launch another war. A series of treaties in 1858 opened more ports, levied more indemnities, gave Europeans their long-sought diplomatic recognition, the right to travel freely in China and protection for missionaries. Still China was not reconciled to reality. In 1860, after the Europeans sacked Peking and burned the Summer Palace, China agreed to a new convention widening the provisions of all the others she had been brought by the scruff of the neck to sign. In 1858, Russia had wrested 185,000 square miles of Manchuria from the beleaguered Manchus. In 1860, for using his "influence" with the allies, the czar got an additional 133,000 square miles, including Vladivostok. In the mid-19th century, not only the Europeans but chronic floods and famines and a phenomenon called the Taiping Rebellion ravaged China. Launched in 1850 by Hung Hsiu-chuan, who saw visions and called himself the Younger Brother of Christ, it spread rapidly in southern China. Hung hoped to drive out the Manchus and establish a communistic society ("T'ai-ping T'ien-kuo, or 'Heavenly Kingdom of Great Peace'") based on his version of Christianity. Not until 1864, after claiming 20 million lives, was the "Great Peace" pacified with the help of a European-trained army. Thus the West propped up the sagging Manchu dynasty with one hand while rending it asunder with the other.

Facts From A Columnist's Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:
Despite all the hullabaloo over highway safety, the Insurance Information Institute reports that the nation's estimated economic loss from traffic accidents for the first two months of 1966 was $1,733 billion, up $50 million for the similar period last year.

At least you're not lonesome if you have so-called athlete's foot. Some 40 million Americans have some form of this ailment. George Washington was neither as shy nor as stuffy as old-time history books made him appear. For example, he occasionally gave away lockets with a portrait of himself on the front and a mirror in back. The ladies so favored wore the lockets around their necks and used the mirror to see if their curls were in place.

Quotable notables: "How can you be expected to govern a country that has 246 kinds of cheese?" — Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Facts to amaze your bartender with: An octopus has three hearts. You can now get your own face put on a wooden Indian statue carved by Ozark native sculptors.

It may depress you to learn that the $20-million luxury hotel Caesars' Palace, opening in Las Vegas, Nev., will have a men's room attendant named Marc Antony and women's room attendant named Cleopatra. How about the bouncer? Well, he'll be called Brutus.

America's 18 million people over 65 spend some $36 billion a year — and some of it goes for dancing lessons as well as wheel chairs.

Test your smart teen-ager by seeing if he can solve this puzzle: "Ben is twice as old as Bill used to be when Ben happened to be as old as Bill is now. Bill is now 18 years old. How old is Ben?" Answer: Ben is 24.

Some 500 objects now orbit the earth, including dead satellites and fragments of rockets. Bet you didn't know that a well-hit golf ball can leave the club at 135 miles an hour.

Nature note: A rat's incisors can grow five inches a year. That's why it has to gnaw or die. Captive 200 animals usually live years longer than those which run wild.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By BILL BUCHANAN

A personal letter at a time of bereavement can mean a lot. This letter shows you why —

"Words sound and seem empty. But even so, I'll try... In the pattern of life, a person's mettle is measured when compelled to face a very realistic decision of a Higher Power. We are proud of you; proud of your courage, your fortitude. We're proud of the way you handled and conducted yourself during the tough and trying ordeal of these past several days, as well as in the preceding months.

A beneficent and kind Creator has given all of us many blessings. You have a rare blessing in the precious possession of pleasant memories. We too are grateful for our blessing that allows us to share at least some of the memories with you. You don't have to be told. You know we are and will be thinking of you always."

This letter proved to be a tonic to the person who received it. The recipient graciously suggested the letter be published here in the hope that others may write appropriate letters to those in sorrow... BILL W. BUCHANAN, GILLHAM - BUCHANAN FUNERAL HOME, 326 W. State St., Phone 245-5171.

KNIGHT COMPLETES CHEVY TRAINING

Larry Knight

A recent graduate of the first Cooperative Work Training Program at the General Motors Training Center, Kirkwood, Missouri, was Larry Knight, sponsored by John Ellis Chevrolet Company.

The 15-week mechanical program completed by Knight involved 360 hours of classroom instruction and 240 hours on the job training at the John Ellis Chevrolet Co.

This program was developed by General Motors in the interest of training young men who wish to enter the automobile service field.

Details of the program can be obtained from R. C. Olson of John Ellis Chevrolet.

GREENE EXTENSION PROGRAM MAY 16 TO HAVE MALE GUESTS

CARROLLTON — "How to Make the Most of Your Home Furnishings" is the theme of a program to be presented by the Greene County Cooperative Extension Service May 16 at 8 p.m. in the Carrollton Community High School. Husbands of the members and guests are invited to attend.

The program will be presented through the use of exhibits, colored slides, posters and publications. Featured will be re-finished or antiqued furniture, slip covered or re-upholstered furniture, draperies, storage, lighting and accessories.

University of Illinois
District Meetings

"Women and Cars" is the title of the lesson being presented by the Home Adviser, Frances Webb, to the District Homemakers meetings this month. "Why Not Enjoy Music?" is appropriate as an accompaniment for the selected subject. The following groups will be meeting this week:

Thursday, May 12, the Town and Country Unit will be the hostess Unit to Franklin and Jacksonville Evening at 8 p.m. at the First Baptist Church Annex in Jacksonville.

Tuesday, May 17, Jersey College members will be the hostesses to members of Berea and Harmony Unit members at the Literberry Christian Church at 1:30. At 8 p.m. the Bluffs Evening Unit will entertain the Winchester Evening at the Boatel in Naples.

Furniture Workshop

A local leader training lesson will be presented at the Farm Bureau Building in Jacksonville on Wednesday, May 11. Miss Virginia Seidel, Extension Specialist in Home Furnishings, from the University of Illinois, will be presenting the lesson. The class will begin at 9:30 a.m. and last until approximately 3:30 p.m. This is a workshop type lesson. Each individual registering will receive the list of equipment she needs to bring. Advanced registration is essential.

Jean Hafstrom, Family Economic Specialist from the University of Ill., will be conducting the local leader training on "How Do You Rate As a Shopper?" This will be presented to Units by these leaders in June. This will be a two and one half hour session lasting from 9:30-12:00 on Friday, May 13 with Mrs. Lowell Well

May 13.

Requested: Miss Day demonstrated the making of Banana Pops but the recipe did not appear in the program. Many requests have been made for it. BANANA POPS:

Cut bananas in chunks and put a toothpick in each. Freeze Melt 1 package butterscotch chips, 1/2 cup smooth peanut butter and 1 tsp. vegetable shortening (hydrogenated). Dip frozen banana pieces in this mixture. Stick picks in styrofoam so mixture will remain on all sides.

Corrections

Two corrections should be made in other recipes Miss Day demonstrated, too. In the recipe for Carrot Casserole, add 1 cup milk and in the recipe for Shrimp Americana in Pastr Shells the recipe should have read a 3 oz. pkg. of cheddar cheese instead of 1 oz. pkg.

NORTONVILLE CLUB VETOEES PICNIC

NORTONVILLE—The Nortonville Community club met at the club hall April 29 with Mrs. Loyd Sorrells as hostess. Mrs. P. O. Francis presided.

Mrs. Herbert Clayton reported on the recent district convention. Members voted again sponsoring the annual Nortonville picnic. Mrs. Lester Penick presented a program on International Affairs.

Mrs. Penick conducted contests with prizes going to Mr. Roy Kelly, Mrs. Herbert Clayton, Mrs. Melvin Koehler, Mr. Bill Orris, Mrs. Virgil Vedde and Mrs. Edwin Clayton.

Refreshments were served. The last meeting of the club year will be a homecoming from 9:30-12:00 on Friday, May 13 with Mrs. Lowell Well

The low-priced high-price car.

Low-priced because it's a Catalina with a sticker that's within reach of a lot of low-priced car buyers. High-priced because it has the Pontiac name and everything that goes with it. Like a full 121 inches of road-leveling wheelbase. And 50 more standard horsepower than those low-priced cars offer. And steady Wide-Track ride and handling. With luxurious interiors you practically sink up to your knees in. (And, of course, standard safety items like a padded dashboard.) All backed up by Pontiac's legendary resale value that makes such exciting reading in the record books year after year. Makes you wonder why anybody would buy a low-priced car when you can get a Pontiac Catalina for the same money.

It is possible to play bridge using only the words: "Pass, double, redouble, no-trump, spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs" and the numbers one to seven.

This would make the game mightily boring but too much conversation is even more deadly. Furthermore, when a man talks instead of thinking he does not help his cause. Silence is both golden and profitable.

South rose with dummy's queen of spades only to see East cover with the king.

"One finesse wrong," said South. "I will probably be unlucky enough to lose the other two that I am faced with."

Then South covered with his ace of spades, led a club to dummy's king, played the seven of hearts from dummy and the six from his own hand after East produced the three.

Meanwhile West had been listening and thinking. One finesse was obviously for the queen of hearts. That was wrong. The other finesse was surely for the king or queen of diamonds and West knew that one would work. How could he, West, keep South from taking that diamond finesse?

West solved his problem quickly. He won that heart trick with his ace. Then he crashed a spade and led a second club. South, back in dummy, played the nine of hearts. The heart finesse had worked once. It would surely work the second time.

It didn't. West produced the queen and got off lead with a club. South had no way to return to dummy and had to concede a diamond trick for down one.

Virginia FHA Honors Mothers

VIRGINIA — The members of the Future Homemakers of America honored their mothers with a smorgasbord at the Rossi Restaurant, Wednesday evening, April 27.

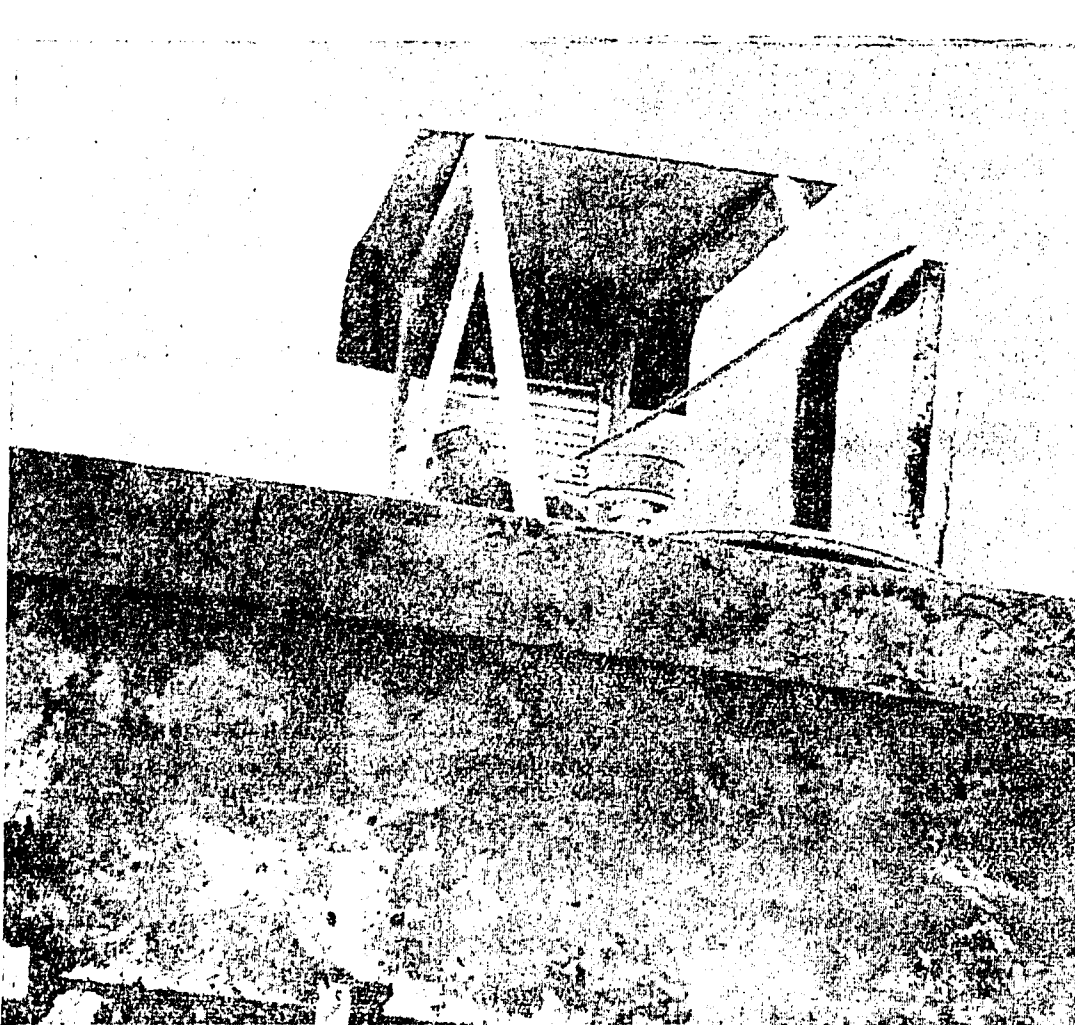

"April Showers" was the theme. The centerpiece, designed by Stephanie Treadway, were goal posts with falling raindrops over flowers. Nutcrackers, place cards and program covers were in green, yellow, rose and blue.

President, Malinda Hish, welcomed the group and Mrs. Edgar Hish, chapter mother, gave the response. Sally Hardwick said grace before the dinner.

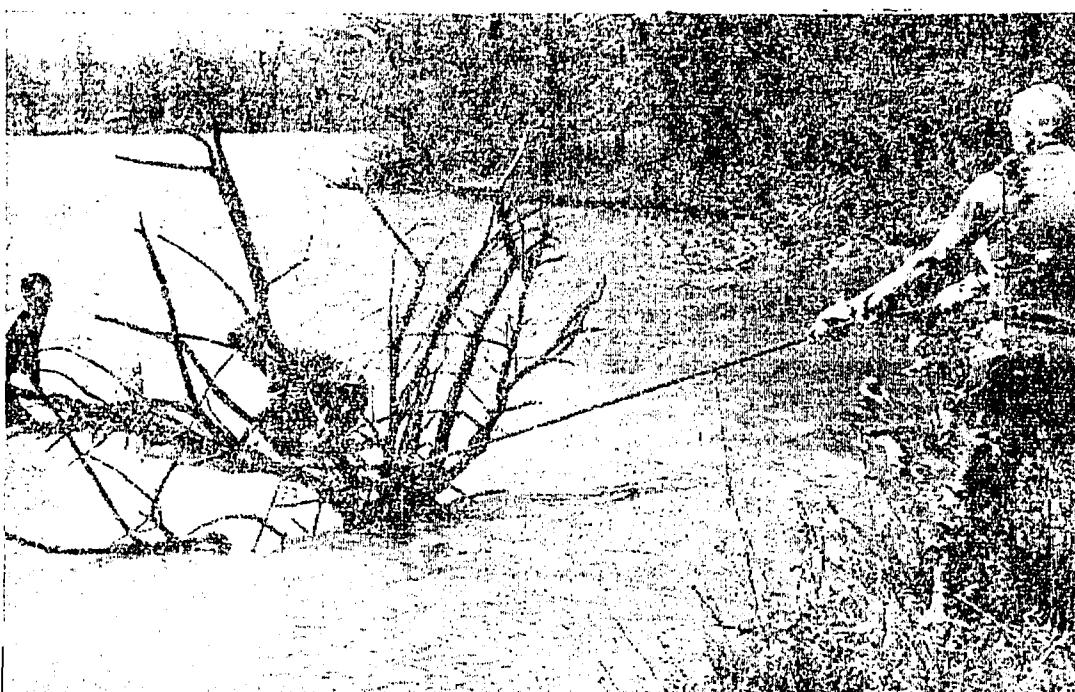

After the dinner, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, adviser, introduced guests. Mary Stock, program chairman introduced the program which consisted of a piano solo by Joyce Sapp and slides on Hawaii, shown by Miss Sylvan Six of Ashland. The program closed with the F.H.A. Creed and F.H.A. song.

Members in charge of arrangements were: program, Mary Stock, chairman, Sally Hardwick and Tacy Devlin; dinner arrangements: Donna Long; decorations, Stephanie Treadway, chairman, Jeanie Stock, Karen Long, Linda Lyons, Diane Lael, Sandra Hillis, Una Knowles, Sue Hill, and Sue Olroyd.

Mrs. Elizabeth McClintock and Mrs. Louise Widmayer, of Springfield, attended memorial services in this city, Wednesday afternoon, for Mrs. C. G. Colburn.

ORDER OF THE DAY—Earl Wright of Murrayville volunteered his services and this bulldozer Saturday in removing trees and stumps in the area to be developed for swimming and recreation this summer at Lake Jacksonville, west of the boat dock.

FIREMEN TAKE TO WATER—City firemen Ron Campbell (l) and Bud Sullivan, assistant chief, help in removing a dead tree in the area where the sandy beach of "Project Sandy Beach" has been proposed to be located. Helping the firemen are Carl Bourn and Harold Walker.

Psychologist Housewife Climbs Ship's Ladder Once Every Day

By DALE NELSON

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Once each day, five days a week, a tall, blonde psychologist and housewife named Betty Gordon climbs a ship's ladder to a 6-by-6 foot soundproof cubicle on the roof of Seattle's regional primate research center.

Mrs. Gordon seats herself on a stool and watches one of the nine Malaysian monkeys in a larger enclosure on the other side of a one-way glass window. As she watches, she speaks into a tape recorder.

In a typical session, she might begin like this: "3ma, ia, moe, is, ihx, moex-10, 10ex, mhrzi, mozi, iv."

Translated, that means: "Mother and infant are seated close to each other, infant stands, infant steals food from mother, mother stops eating, infant eats, mother grabs infant, mother bites infant, infant vocalizes."

Researchers at the University of Washington say they are finding that such observations give them new insights into human behavior—particularly into what factors make some babies grow into well-adjusted children and adults while others have trouble getting along.

Mrs. Gordon is one of four observers in a mother-infant and group behavior study under Dr. Gordon D. Jensen, psychiatrist and pediatrician. Each observer records observations for 10 minutes at a sitting, using code because there wouldn't be time otherwise. All observations describe, as Dr. Jensen puts it, "who does what to whom."

The tapes are analyzed by computers.

A more ambitious study involving 18 monkeys will begin this summer and last several years.

In an earlier study, 12 mothers and their infants were observed—some in deprived, some in enriched and others in semi-enriched environments.

The deprived environment was a cage with nothing in it. The enriched environment had toys, climbing bars and other little monkeys. To create the semi-enriched environment, researchers started the mother and child in a bare cage and added the other elements after four months of the six-month study.

"The infants raised in the enriched environments were superior in dominance and adequacy," said Dr. Jensen.

"The other infants were growing up with all the mothering they could want and were highly inadequate socially because they lacked opportunities to climb, to play with toys and particularly to have the companionship of others."

"This sort of thing gives us insights into possible important factors in human child development. It's not a direct application, but there are parallels. In the past the mother's role has been emphasized, often to the exclusion of other things which we now find are also important in social development."

Hope For Antibiotic To Kill Any Bacteria

By RALPH DIGHTON

AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Recent discovery of how penicillin works offers hope of making an antibiotic powerful enough to kill any bacteria—by popping them—without harmful side effects, a scientist said Wednesday.

"This is no pipe dream—it's a distinct possibility," Dr. Jack L. Strominger, chairman of the department of pharmacology at the University of Wisconsin Medical School, told a news conference at a meeting of the American Society for Microbiology.

"Every type of bacteria can be killed by penicillin if you use enough of it," he said, "but there are many types that are not killed because they would require use of so much penicillin that the side effects would be dangerous."

New research offers hope we can increase the potency of antibiotic, tremendously. If we can do this we can reduce the dose and thus lower the allergic reaction to tolerable limits."

Dr. Strominger and his associates recently found the answer to a question which has puzzled scientists since penicillin was discovered 37 years ago: How does it kill bacteria without killing normal body cells?

He said their work indicates penicillin and other antibiotics prevent invading bacteria from building their cell walls. Human cells do not have a wall, he said, only a fragile membrane through which food passes from the blood plasma.

"Animal cells are bathed in their food supply—the plasma," Dr. Strominger said. "Bacteria have to take their food when they can get it. They pump food into themselves under great pressure, building up internal pressure five to 20 times normal atmospheric pressure."

"To withstand this pressure they build a cell wall which can be likened to a set of ropes tied together to make a kind of fishnet. By chemical reaction, penicillin prevents these ropes from being tied together at the final step in construction. The internal pressure becomes too great and the bacteria burst and die."

Dr. Strominger said the new knowledge offers scientists hope they can investigate bacteria and antibiotics logically and rationally on a step-by-step basis, instead of relying on random discoveries, and thus develop better antibacterial agents.

"Many cancer and leukemia patients die not of those diseases but because in their weakened condition bacterial infection is lethal," he said.

fits. The construction industry, scientific equipment makers, drug manufacturers, a host of services catering to bigger medical and nursing schools and larger hospital staffs, companies selling health and accident insurance over and above Medicare, and even the heating-air conditioning industry and the computer makers.

Still unresolved before Medicare starts July 1 is: how much more business? The nation's workers and their employers already are affected. Social Security tax rates — paid by both — went up the first of the year, with more boosts to come. Federal and state aid toward building more hospitals, medical schools, and perhaps more nursing homes could send other taxes higher.

Most hospitals and physicians are looking for a big increase in the number of elderly patients after July 1. There are 19 million Americans over 65 — with 17 million signed up for full coverage. Many ailments for which the elderly now hesitate to seek care, or can't afford to, will seem worthy of professional attention when the major part of their bills are reimbursed.

More than 7,000 existing hospitals with nearly two million full-time employees are involved. About 27 per cent of the nation's hospital beds are now occupied by those over 65. Some 20,000 nursing homes may be involved. They have been growing fast in recent years in numbers and size. Ailments of the elderly often are more suited to nursing home care than are those of younger persons.

Medical schools turned out 7,300 physicians last year, and are aiming at 10,000 graduates a year by 1970. But the demand for them may grow much faster than that. Already, because of domestic shortages, hospital staffs number more than 10,000 imported teachers.

Still to be assessed, but likely to be large, is the demand for new hospitals and expansion of existing ones, for more and larger medical and nursing schools, and for hospital equipment. As Medicare passes the startup stage, expanding treatment for the elderly at home and in doctors' offices will add still more pressure for equipment and manpower.

A few examples: The Picker X-Ray Corporation estimates X-ray apparatus sales will grow from the present $300 million a year to $500 million in 1970. C. D. McGinn, president of National Cylinder Gas, predicts a 5 to 10 per cent increased demand for medical products and equipment. Penetone division of Amerace sees a like rise in use of hospital germicidal products. Demand for hospital room pressurization and germicidal filtration systems is sure to rise even faster than of late, Worthington Corporation predicts. It also sees an industrywide growth of 20 to 30 per cent for sales of heating and air conditioning equipment to hospitals and nursing homes.

Even now Medicare is putting a squeeze on hospital bookkeeping departments. Accounting work to allocate expenses — what is and what isn't subject to reimbursement by the government under Medicare — may swamp some hospital staffs, according to Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, a national accounting firm. It predicts wider use of electronic data processing to meet the challenge.

Honeywell cites eight hospitals in Minnesota that already use one central computer for planning, computing and record-keeping. This now includes billing, cost accounting and statistical work. Deciding what Uncle Sam should pay for Medicare comes next.

Britain Loses Another Colony On May 26—British Guiana

EDITOR'S NOTE — Britain loses another colony May 26, when British Guiana turns into the new nation of Guyana. Castro and the Communists are hoping to grab the infant country. Here is a look at an explosive hemisphere problem by a veteran observer of the Latin-American scene.

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Guiana, long a target for Red subversion, is to become the world's newest independent nation on May 26, with a non-Communist government in control.

The little nation on South America's northeast coast, where the regime of Marxist Cheddi Jagan was overthrown in 1953 after charges by the London government that it was about to fall into Communist hands, was proclaimed a Communist target by the January tricontinental conference in Havana.

In addition, it faces many of the economic and social problems of underdeveloped countries, plus one not so widespread; racial strife.

A century or more ago, its sugar plantation owners brought in slaves from Africa, and hundreds of workers from India to work in the cane fields. Racial flareups between the two groups have occurred from time to time but the situation has been relatively peaceful recently.

In October 1953, a drama was played out with the whole world watching. It was not one of the simple power plays of history, where a great nation sends in troops to quell an uprising among the troublesome natives.

The point raised by the British Colonial Office was that British Guiana was menaced by Communist domination. It didn't happen, but there are some who say the Communists have not given up.

Whether they do will be one of the tasks facing the government of British Guiana — to be called Guyana after it is independent.

Jagan, central figure in the 1953 events, is not in power now — but he has considerable strength in and out of the country. He also is on good terms with Moscow, and with Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Now prime minister of British Guiana is Linden Forbes Sampson Burnham, 43, a Negro who once won a nationwide contest as the brightest young man in the country.

In 1953, the British government sent 600 troops, a cruiser, a frigate and a detachment of airborne troops into British Guiana to meet what it termed a plot to turn the colony into a "totalitarian state subordinate to Moscow."

As the troops were awaited, Jagan, an East Indian, sat on a porch of his modest frame house in Georgetown and told this correspondent that London's action was "outrageous and wholly unjustified."

He said the Colonial Office viewpoint about the danger of a Communist takeover was "pure nonsense." As to whether he himself was a Communist, he never gave a straight yes or no answer.

Polly's Pointers Old Hangers Protect Plants

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY — Take wire coat hangers, straighten out the hook ends, pull up the top part a little bit and insert the sharp prongs in the ground. Placed side by side, these make an almost invisible fence to put around bushes, flowers and plants to ward off stray dogs. They can be placed as close together or as far apart as one likes and are easy to remove when cutting the grass. —MRS. H. H.

DEAR POLLY — A covered cake plate stays on our kitchen table all the time. It holds the pepper and salt, sugar bowl and a small butter dish which are used at every meal. The cover keeps the small items out of sight and free from dust. This also saves time and steps as I do not have to put these things away and get them out again three times a day. Thanks and keep up your useful work. —MRS. B. T.

My thanks to you, Mrs. B. T., and I will keep up the good work as long as you and my other good friends continue to send in the Pointers. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Instead of having to buy a special table on which to change baby I found that a used knee-hole desk will do just as well and is the right height. This can be painted to go with the room's color scheme and the drawers are so handy for storing diapers, powder, lotions and so on. The diaper pail can stand under the desk where it is handy and inconspicuous. —JEANNE
DEAR POLLY — I recently bought a pair of glass fiber draperies. They are beautiful but are unlined and looked rather thin and stringy when hanging at the windows, until I hung some sheer tailored panel curtains I had back of them. The panels were slipped on the rods and the draperies hooked over them. They now look much more expensive and will be easier to launder than if the lining was sewed in. —EVELYN

DEAR POLLY — When hanging shag rugs outdoors to dry I find that if I hang them by the backs to the sun they dry much faster. When the "source of the moisture," so to speak, is cut off the loops or nap dries much quicker. This also helps to keep the colored rugs new-looking longer because the sun does not fade them. When hanging rugs in the basement, hang the backs toward the furnace. Shag rugs take so long to dry even in the dryer so I find hanging them this way to finish drying is helpful. —L. S.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
LONDON (AP) — "It's just as well that my father can't see me now," said John Huston with a dash of wry.

The director was ruminating over how the late Walter Huston, the best American actor of his generation, might have felt about his son's adventures into the profession. Lanky John is at it again, playing a bit of a role as M. the mysterious boss of James Bond, in "Casino Royale."

"It's very brief, really," he said over a glass of sherry during the luncheon break at Pine-wood Studios. "I only do these roles because I can't get other actors to do them."

He is directing a sequence in "Casino Royale," which features a multi-star cast but not Sean Connery. It was the one Ian Fleming novel that the producers of "Thunderball," etc., didn't own. The Huston sequence is so wild as to make Connery's Bond seem like Sherlock Holmes.

Huston acted only as a lark when he was a youngster, and only once with his father. He returned to makeups when Otto Preminger enquired him to play a crusty cleric in "The Cardinal," and he drew an Academy nomination for his labors.

Last year he directed himself as Noah in the "Bible." Concerning "The Bible," he departs from his usually cool analysis of his work. "It contains things that have never been seen before, things I've always wanted to do. It's pretty far-out."

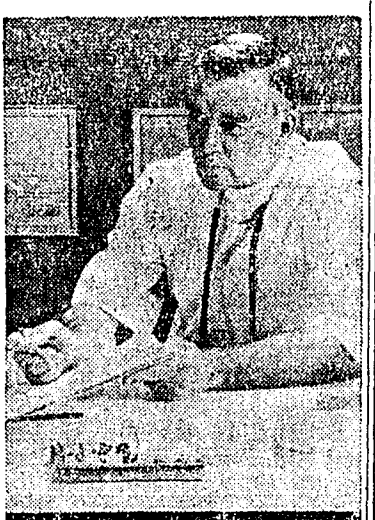

Huston said he was able to put his far-out ideas into effect through the kind indulgence of his producer, Dino DeLaurentis. "Dino always said, 'let's try it,' to my suggestions," said the director. "Take the music. At first we wanted Igor Stravinsky, but he would have used part of his already composed music which is tied up with copyrights."

"I happened to tell the problem to the friend of one of my ex-wives. He sent me about 50 record albums by contemporary composers. One day I heard music that was just what I had been hoping for. It was by a Japanese composer, 'Toshio Matsuzumi, and Dino let me hire him.'"

Huston expended $19 million on the three-hour film, which will be released in September.

BEAUTIFY KNEES YOU SHOW

The new word from Paris is "show the knee." And a quick glance down the avenue shows many women heed the order. If your knees are worth displaying, take care of them. Apply cream to knees daily so they will be soft and not scratched or scaly looking. The shortened skirts call for special attention to the legs.

...it's time to get the Mountain Valley habit.

This pure, spring-sweet water from the great health resort region of Hot Springs, Ark., is America's favorite health water.

Doctors in a recent hospital test found that when patients drank Mountain Valley Water, instead of faucet water, 66% increased body waste elimination and had greater urinary output.

It's a good health practice to drink this spring-pure water. Order a supply now.

'Drugstores' And 'Pubs' Lure Parisians From Their Bistros

By RODNEY ANGOVE
PARIS (AP) — Foreign-inspired eating and drinking spots are luring Parisians away from their traditional cafes and bistros.

The places have names like "Drugstore" and "Pub," and a new generation of socialites consider them smart. They are sprouting up everywhere — on the Right Bank, the Left Bank, intellectual bastions of other years, and in the suburbs.

They only slightly resemble their American and British namesakes. Foreign-inspired, yes, but the comparison ends there, say the operators. They are French and aim at the pocketbooks of the increasingly affluent French middle class.

The growing middle class may lack money for a new home or a car, but it can afford a few dollars a week for fun and frivolities. The new price range fits them: 10 francs — $2 — is the average evening food and drink bill at most of them. The gifts and gadgets — largely American and Japanese — run generally from 5 to 100 francs.

The formula has been so successful that one promoter, Jean-Louis Solal, plans to lecture the Americans about it when he attends a trade convention in Los Angeles soon.

American-educated Solal starts with this premise: "The French live in plain, if not dull, homes. When they go out, they want the feeling of luxury."

That's why his "Drug West" is a shopping center west of Paris has background music and is decorated in polished marble, mahogany, brass and rich fabrics. The pharmacy seems almost an afterthought among bar, restaurant, magazine rack, record shop and gift items.

Advertising executive Marcel Bleustein-Blanchet, with some frontage on the least-frequented part of the Avenue des Champs Elysees, put an industrial designer on the problem. The designer, who goes by the name Slavik in preference to his real name Vyacheslav Vasiliev, came up with Paris' first "drugstore." Slavik suggested that neon and plastic give way to a soft, restful and luxurious atmosphere. He reasoned: People want to look at other people; they want to feel secure; they want to be seen themselves.

His typical design shows the result. In the "Pub Renault," a bar-restaurant built into the rear of an auto showroom, most of the booths resemble antique autos. The guests have to climb up into them much as they would a 1909 touring car, but the height and a few small mirrors give them an eye-catching advantage. They also feel as snugly at home as in the back seat of a car.

At the "Drugstore St. Germain," on the site of a garish cafe that sold out, Slavik's floor plan invites customers to circulate. On the main floor they pass the sales counters. Upstairs they circulate around the diners and drinkers, some of whom sit at tables around an open air well watching the shoppers on the main floor.

The "Drugstore St. Germain" and several others have movies in adjoining quarters.

The World Today

Right how? He didn't say. Nor did he say how Johnson's goals and objectives differ from those of the State and Defense departments. He got specific on just about one point.

That was Johnson's trip last February to Honolulu to meet South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Schlesinger was critical here, too, saying Johnson had let the State Department convince him Ky was popular in Viet Nam. But on what could Johnson base his judgment if he couldn't depend on Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara?

Later, on ABC's television-radio program "Issues and Answers," Rusk was asked about the Schlesinger criticism but brushed it off, saying, in short, the historian was shooting his mouth off without being informed. He said "we have facts."

"Mr. Schlesinger," Rusk said, "is not an expert on Asia. He took a very small role in Asian questions when he was in the government. I worked on Asia for 25 years and I don't think I'm going to get into a discussion with Mr. Schlesinger on Asia."

Rusk said he, Johnson and McNamara, with the full backing of men who have spent their lives working on Asia, try to make the best judgments they can.

Schlesinger was — and wasn't — in agreement with Fulbright, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. The senator has been endlessly critical of Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

But his most recent attack, a speech last week, not only was vague but seemed to have its roots in negativism.

This was the point he tried to make: A powerful country like this can't do much to help a backward Asian country develop an orderly life. At the same time he warned the United States against feeling self-righteous and equating power with virtue.

Schlesinger said he is in sympathy with much Fulbright said — he didn't say what, specifically — but dismissed the senator's argument that this country might be equating power with virtue.

He said that might have been truer in the days of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration than now.

To counter this, intelligence reports say, the Communists have pulled back into Cambodia about 20 miles. The monsoon drives are expected from these new sanctuaries.

One particularly sensitive spot, long a Viet Cong stronghold, is the French-named C Zone just inside South Viet Nam along the Cambodian border.

American infantrymen have repeatedly swept through this area and destroyed huge caches of supplies but have made only minor contact with the enemy.

The giant B52 bombers also have subjected the area to incessant heavy bombing.

U.S. intelligence is reasonably sure that more than 20,000 North Vietnamese have entered South Viet Nam and neighboring Laos and Cambodia since the first of the year.

They filter down the Ho Chi Minh Trail, not as organized units but in small groups or individually.

U. S. officials say the infiltration rate reached 5,500 in March, about 1,000 more than previous months, and the April figure could have been as high as 7,000.

barges," the spokesman said. He said aerial photographs confirmed the destruction to bridges and highways leading to Hanoi from four directions.

Although North Viet Nam claimed that six U.S. planes were shot down over the north Sunday, the U.S. Command reported only one loss — a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief that was hit during strikes against the Cao Nung railroad bridge 55 miles northeast of Hanoi.

A military spokesman said the pilot was seen to parachute to the ground but could not be rescued. He was listed as missing in action.

This brought the total number of planes lost over North Viet Nam to 232.

In the ground war, only light skirmishes were reported. Air Force B52s from Guam struck again at the suspected Viet Cong troop concentration area in the C Zone near Cambodia, 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

It was the ninth day in a row that the giant B52s — each carrying a destructive load of 22 to 30 tons of explosives — hit at the enemy stronghold in support of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's Operation Birmingham.

Other American planes flew 284 sorties over South Viet Nam, striking at Viet Cong troops, camps, river traffic and storage areas. The South Vietnamese air force flew 174 sorties, about half of them night flare drops in support of ground troops.

Giants Pull Odd DP At St. Louis

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
The San Francisco Giants may have pulled off a unique double play at St. Louis, spoiling the Cardinals' farewell at Busch Stadium — and possibly the National League pennant race.

The Giants displayed their muscles in a 10-5 victory over the Cardinals Sunday, then unloaded some immediately after the game by trading slugger outfielder-first baseman Orlando Cepeda to St. Louis for left-hander Ray Sadecki.

Cepeda, who has a lifetime batting average of .308, undoubtedly will supply the Cardinals with more punch. He put on quite a show before changing uniforms, hitting a grand slam homer Saturday and driving in two runs with a pair of hits Sunday.

Sadecki, a 20-game winner for

Cepeda, Sadecki Swap Pleases All

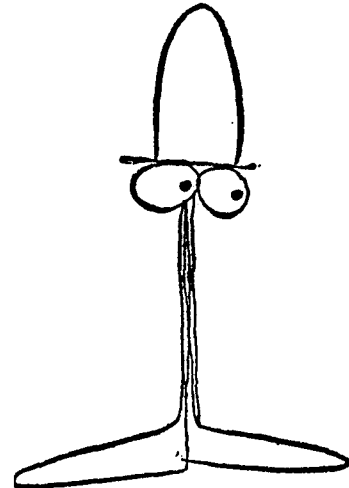

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The San Francisco Giants have a new left-handed pitcher — Ray Sadecki — the St. Louis Cardinals have a new clean-up hitter — Orlando Cepeda — and Cepeda has a chance to play regularly.

The straight player deal between the two National League teams was made Sunday.

Both clubs and Sadecki expressed satisfaction with the trade. Cepeda, the veteran first baseman-outfielder, had mixed emotions.

PLANS RUNNING GAME

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Norman Sloan, newly appointed head basketball coach at North Carolina State, says he plans to use "a running game with a pressure defense whenever possible."

"There are no set names for the type of game I coach," said Sloan after his appointment to succeed Press Marovich was announced Saturday. Marovich resigned April 30 to take the head coaching post at Louisiana State University.

Sloan, 39, head basketball coach at the University of Florida for the past six seasons, planned to sign a three-year contract at N. C. State today. The terms were not disclosed.

Cards Dedicate New Park Sunday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals dedicated their new $24 million park Sunday after bidding historic Busch Stadium farewell in brief and nostalgic ceremonies.

"This is a fine occasion, but a sad one," said former Cardinal great Stan Musial during ceremonies honoring him before St. Louis and San Francisco played the last major league game in the stadium, the oldest in the majors. "There are a lot of memories here."

Bill Stockisch, who as a groundskeeper at the stadium for 60 years probably holds as many memories about the park as anyone, was given the honor of digging up home plate for replanting in the Cardinals' new home several miles away.

A band played Auld Lang Syne as a helicopter swung away to transport the plate to the new site near the Mississippi River.

About 18,000 persons attended the dedication after a downtown parade.

Baseball was first played on the site of Busch Stadium, which was known as Sportsman's Park most of its history, in 1866. Through the years, several teams, including the old St. Louis Browns and the present football Cardinals, called the park home.

The site now will be the home of the Metropolitan St. Louis Boys Club, which plans to re-plant the facility. Cardinal President August A. Busch Jr. decided the park over to the organization in the ceremony after the game Sunday.

"I hate to see this stadium go, but the Cardinals are going to a better one," said Hall of Famer Dizzy Dean, who played for St. Louis. "I'm proud they're leaving the old one for the youngsters."

Kentucky State Gets A Lot Out Of Five Runners

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Track coach William Exum of Kentucky State College brought just five runners to compete in three events in the 10th annual Quantico Relays. Five were enough.

"I don't know whether they're too tired to have another good race in them or not," said Exum just before the invitational mile relay that was the last of the 27 events on the final program Saturday.

Exum, who succeeded the legendary Sam Taylor after his death April 1, needn't have worried. With Jim Kemp, the NCAA 440-yard champion, running a 45.9 second anchor leg, Kentucky State flashed to victory in 3:10.2. It was Kentucky State's third triumph, the first in which they didn't set a meet record.

With Kemp, named the meet's top performer, as anchor man, Kentucky State earlier had set marks of 3:21.1 in the spring medley relay and 1:24.3 in the 880-yard relay. Kemp's compatriots on both record-breaking teams were Marshall Glover, Bob Bailey and Clarence Ray.

What's more, Kentucky State has a lot to look forward to. Only Glover of the two record quartets is a senior. The other three—plus Vernell Turner, who replaced Bailey in the mile relay—are juniors.

Kentucky State was pushed for top honors Saturday by North Carolina College and its Olympic star from Trinidad, Ed Roberts.

The Eagles, with Roberts just reinstated last week after some difficulties, set a meet record of 41.1 in the 440-yard relay, and Roberts retained his 100-yard dash title in 9.2, also a meet mark. But a faulty baton pass knocked them out of contention in the 880 relay.

Other meet records were set Saturday by Pat Pomphrey of Tennessee, 13.7 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles; Mike Manley of the Quantico Marines, 8:52.6 in the 3,000-meter steeplechase; and William Skinner of the Delaware Track and Field Club, 248 feet in the javelin.

That made it 11 records for the two-day meet.

Robinson, Scott Notch AL Firsts

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Frank Robinson, playing his first season in the American League, drove in the first runs off Cleveland's Luis Tiant this year when he became the first player ever to hit a fair ball out of Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

Boston's George Scott, playing his first season in the majors, became the first player in the majors to hit 10 home runs.

And Paul Casanova of Washington hit his first major league homer in the eighth inning for the first hit off Kansas City's Fred Talbot.

But in possibly the most significant first of Sunday's American League developments, the New York Yankees, playing under new Manager Ralph Houk, put together their first two-game winning streak this season by defeating California 5-2.

The victory was only the Yankees' sixth against 16 losses, but it pulled them out of the cellar and made them two-for-two since Houk replaced Johnny Keane as manager Saturday night.

In other American League games Baltimore swept Cleveland 8-2 and 8-3, Boston did the same to Minnesota 8-1 and 4-1, Washington edged Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings and Detroit trimmed Chicago 3-1 in 11.

Their second game was postponed because of cold weather.

In the National League, San Francisco outslugged St. Louis 10-5, Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 3-2, Houston nipped Atlanta 5-4, Cincinnati stopped Los Angeles 2-1, and New York defeated Chicago 5-1 after losing 3-1.

The Yankees scrambled to their second straight victory with the help of second inning errors by the Angels' Jack Warner and Jim Fregosi. The errors followed singles by Roger Maris and Cleto Boyer.

Travels 540 Feet

Robinson's mammoth home run, in the first inning of the second game, traveled 540 feet with a roll and drove in the first runs off Tiant, who went into the game with three shutouts in three starts this season. Tiant gave up five runs in all before leaving in the third.

Robinson also hit a homer in the first game as Jim Palmer stopped Cleveland on three hits. Curt Blefary and Boog Powell added homers for the Orioles. Powell also connected in the nightcap.

Scott's 10th homer, a two-run blast in the eighth, insured Boston's second-game victory. Dalton Jones' homer had snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh.

Rico Petrocelli drove in five runs with a grand slam homer and a single in the opener as the Red Sox halted a streak of 17 straight losses to Minnesota.

Talbot held Washington hitless for seven innings although he gave up a run in the first. Kansas City tied it in the eighth when Bert Campaneris tripled in a run and scored on Wayne Causey's sacrifice fly, but the Senators won it in the 10th as Bob Saverine's run scoring single.

A bases-loaded, two-run double by Gates Brown in the 11th gave Detroit its victory over Chicago. The game had been tied 1-1 since the third when Bill Freehan homered for the Tigers.

Trainer Of Derby Winner Busy Man

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Trainer Henry Forrest has been too busy the past year to even visit his new Tennessee home and there's no let-up in sight. He was preparing today to ship Kauai King, the Kentucky Derby winner, east for the Preakness.

"I bought a little, six-acre place at Brentwood, near Nashville, more than a year ago, but I've spent only one night there since then," Forrest said.

Reminded that Kauai King's half-length Derby victory Saturday was his 230th at Churchill Downs, the 58-year-old native of Covington, Ky., reminisced over his 40 years in racing.

"I started out when I was 18 years old with a horse for J. B. Respass at the old Latonia track," Forrest said.

Apparently, that was a good omen. Respass' Wintergreen had won the Derby 16 years before that and, like Kauai King in Saturday's 92nd running of the classic, led all the way.

Forrest, a winner with the first colt he ever saddled for the Derby, gave much of the credit to jockey Don Brumfield.

"He rode just wonderful," Forrest said. "I told him before the race there might be some horses in front of him at the start, but to use his own judgment."

"He did just that."

Pleasant Surprise

Almost as pleased as Forrest were some in the camp of Adversator, a surprise second finisher in America's most glamorous race. A groom, Albert Foley, proudly predicted the colt would become horse of the year.

Jim Padgett, trainer of third finisher Blue Skyer, said he "couldn't have been more tickled" with the race.

Padgett, who entered Blue Skyer after he was goaded into it, said he had planned to move from here to Chicago, but now "I guess we'll go in the Preakness. I'll have to talk to the owners to be sure, though."

With exception of Fleet Shoe, all of the colts from the Derby were pronounced in good health. Trainer Larry Sterling said Fleet Shoe was "a little touchy in the left knee."

Both Fleet Shoe and Abe's Hope, the second choice in the betting and fifth colt under the finish wire, may get some rest from the racing wars. The others will continue training for summer racing.

"We'll go to Sportsman's Park and may give him a little rest," trainer Del Carroll said of Abe's Hope. A groom noted the Better Bee colt has been in 10 races, including the Derby, this year and all but two were at more than a mile.

All Had Good Shot

All of the first six finishers — Kauai King, Adversator, Blue Skyer, Supendous, Abe's Hope and Rehabilitate — thought they had a top shot at the $120,000 first prize until the last.

As the field swept under the wire, only about 25 feet separated the six. Eight lengths back was Amberoid, who came from last place after a slight stumble coming out of the starting gate.

Fleet Shoe, Exhibitionist, Sky Guy and Williamston Kid followed in that order. Trailing the field over the finish line were Quinta, Tragview, Beau Sub and Dominar.

Handful of Firsts

The victory in the $163,000 Derby, which matches the second richest in the history of the event, marked a handful of firsts:

It was the first entry in the classic for owner Michael Ford and trainer Forrest and the first Derby ride for Brumfield.

Kauai King also was the first Maryland-bred to win the Derby and the first since Jet Pilot in 1947 to lead at every call.

Decisive Week Due In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — This could be the week of reckoning in the tight Big Ten baseball pennant chase.

Among the top contenders Michigan (7-0) is at Iowa (3-4) and Michigan State (5-3) at Minnesota (7-0-1) for single games Friday. Saturday's doubleheader includes Michigan at Minnesota for the pivotal clash and MSU at Iowa.

The other top shot, Ohio State (5-0), may have an easier touch. The Buckeyes are at Illinois (3-4) for a single Friday and at Purdue (0-7-1) for a Saturday twin bill.

Ties count a half game won and a half game lost in the percentages. This puts Minnesota in third place with .938 while Michigan and Ohio State are locked at 1.000. Michigan has played two more games than the Bucks, however, and lead them by one game. The tie fluke puts Minnesota third in the standings but only 1/2 game out of the lead.

Bob Reed of Michigan tied a conference record with his sixth league victory in a relief job against Purdue Saturday. He came on in the fifth inning of the nightcap and blanked the Boilermakers on one hit through the last 2-3 innings of a 7-2 victory. Michigan also took the opener 9-3 behind a seven-hit by Geoff Zahn. Catcher Ted Sizemore headed the Wolverines' attack with a triple and four singles for five RBIs in the two games.

Ohio State took a double header from Northwestern, 15-1 and 9-3.

Minnesota shut out Iowa twice, 7-0 on Frank Brosseau's four-hit chore, and 3-0 behind lefty Mike McNair's six hitter.

Tom Binkowski drove in six runs and Bob Speer totaled six hits in 10 trips to the plate as Michigan State defeated Illinois twice, 15-5 and 6-5. The Spartans scored twice in the last of the 10th to take the nightcap with a pinch-swing by Dick Kilborn scoring the decisive run.

Indiana scored nine unearned runs to whip Wisconsin 12-9 but was blanked in the second game 1-0 on a three-hitter by John Poser. Poser got a surprise call when scheduled starter Bill Bukholz developed a sore arm in warming up. Tom Huset's double and Gary Kraft's single provided the Badgers with the winning run in the sixth.

Federal aid to college students under the "opportunity grants" program is tied tightly to family income and size. Table above, used by colleges in selecting eligible applicants, indicates maximum federal aid a student might expect depending upon these two key factors. Grants are made strictly on the basis of need after it has been determined how much the family can contribute to the cost of a student's tuition, room, board, books and other expenses.

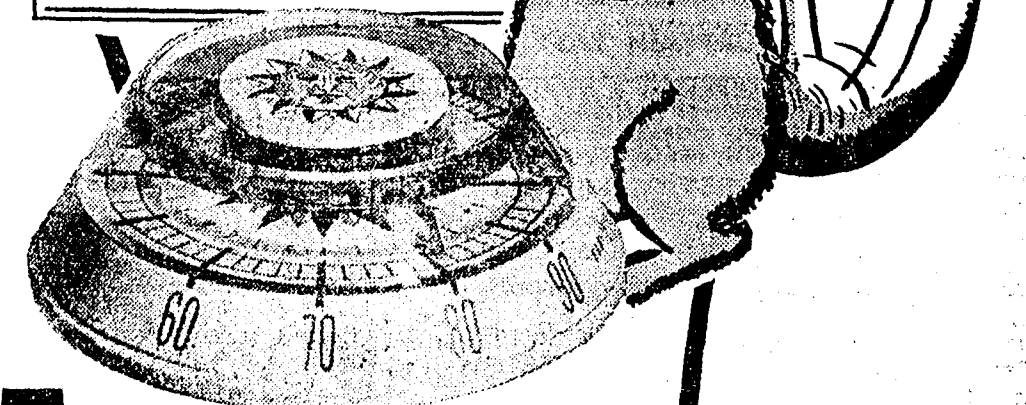

Personal gifts for a bride leave lasting memories. A delicate lace handkerchief (left) is worn during the wedding ceremony. Later simple sewing turns it into a christening bonnet for the first baby. Youngsters like to help, too, and napkins folded as waterlilies (right) to accompany a pretty tablecloth makes a festive family gift for the bride.

I FOUND THIS ADDRESS IN HER PURSE... AND THE TIME 10:00 P.M. NOTED ALONGSIDE! — I COPIED IT OFF!

MEANWHILE, SHE TOLD ME THAT SHE WOULD TRAVEL TO THE DOCKS THIS NIGHT TO SUPERVISE THE UNLOADING OF MEDICINES FOR THE ARMY!

OH, THE SHAME OF IT! LYING TO HER VERY OWN HUSBAND!

HER DRIVER, AND A BODYGUARD I SHALL NOW ASSIGN... FOR HER — AH SAFETY... WILL SEE TO IT THAT SHE RETURNS TO YOUR LOVING ARMS!

ALLEY OOP

I THOUGHT YOU HAD THAT FELLA FROM 2166 EATING RIGHT OUT OF YOUR HAND!

I DID, OSCAR! HE WAS ALL SET TO TAKE ME WITH HIM WHEN THAT GANG OF YOKELS JUMPED US...

NEXT THING I KNEW, POOF! HE WAS GONE!

SIT HERE AND WAIT FOR THE ASTEROID TO HIT US, I GUESS!

Mrs. Graham Of Carrollton Dies, Funeral Tuesday

CARROLLTON — Mrs. Daisie Graham, 86 year old resident of Carrollton, died Saturday night at the Hilltop Nursing Home at White Hall where she had resided the past 17 months. Mrs. Graham was a resident of the Carrollton community for 67 years.

She was born at Litchfield Oct. 20, 1879, the daughter of Thomas and Lucinda Griswold Graham. She was married in January of 1899 to Austin Graham and he died in 1962.

One son, George Graham of Carrollton, survives. There are seven grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church and former member of the East End Reading Circle.

The remains are at the Mehl Funeral Home where friends may call.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home with Dr. Frank Marston of Jacksonville officiating. Interment will be in City cemetery.

Court Grants Probation For 3 Defendants

Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker Monday morning granted probation for three defendants who appeared for sentencing on separate charges and set fines and court costs.

Douglas Quinn of 635 East State was granted one year's probation and ordered to pay a $300 fine and court costs. Quinn entered his plea of guilty to the charge earlier and asked probation. He was arrested by city police April 24.

Ira Lowe Jr., 18, of 858 North Diamond was granted a year's probation and ordered to pay $100 fine and court costs plus ten Saturdays on the county work detail. He asked probation on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor a week ago after entering a plea of guilty. He was arrested by city police April 29.

Earl E. Grady, 22, of 116 Spaulding was granted a year's probation and ordered to pay $100 fine and court costs plus five Saturdays on the county work detail. He asked probation on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor a week ago after entering a plea of guilty. He was arrested by city police April 29.

Raymond F. Hart, 59, of 315 East Michigan, entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor and asked probation on the charge. Magistrate Fenstermaker accepted the plea and ordered a probation hearing May 16.

Hart was arrested by city police April 30 on South Main. Sally Mae Mickens, 19, of Rural Route Azenville entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $25 and $25 court costs. She was charged by city police April 28.

Decatur Man Injured Sunday

A Decatur man was injured in a one-car accident about 2 p.m. Sunday in the 600 block of North Main Street. He was taken to Holy Cross hospital by ambulance where his condition is reported good.

Donald E. Brick, according to city police, knocked over a light pole, a utility pole and continued along Dunlap street for 75 feet before stopping on the boulevard.

Brick was issued a ticket charging driving while under the influence of liquor by city police. The car was towed from the scene.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD INJURED SUNDAY

A small boy was injured shortly after 4:30 p.m. Sunday when he was struck by a hit-run car in the 400 block of South Main Street.

Bryant Lee Johnson, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Johnson, 419 South Sandy, was taken to Holy Cross for treatment of a bump on the head and released after examination.

City police said he was crossing the street near Anna and knocked to the pavement by an unidentified motorist who continued on his way. City police are still investigating the incident.

National Hospital Week May 8-14

National Hospital Week, May 8-14, emphasizes this year the value of community cooperation to good hospital service, with the theme "Alliance for Health."

Locally, this year marks the 60th anniversary of community-wide cooperation to support Passavant Memorial Area Hospital. In 1906 ownership of the hospital went to a corporation composed of Protestant churches in Jacksonville, and this was broadened to a five-county area when the present building was opened in 1953.

Pictured above at the doorway to a patient room are representatives of some of the many groups which devote their skill and training to a cooperative effort to provide quality care for Passavant's Patients. From left to right they are Mrs. Cynthia Benson, R.N., a hospital employee who is head nurse on the first floor; Harold McCarty, a member of the Board of Trustees, who serve without pay; Dr. Albyn G. Wolfe of the medical staff; the Rev. Donald Zumwalt, one of the staff of volunteer chaplains who minister to patients; and Mrs. William Chipman, an Aid Society volunteer who works regularly at the hospital as chairman of the Gift Shop.

N. Greene Board OKs Purchase Of 2 School Buses

WHITE HALL — The Board of Education of North Greene Unit District No. 3 at its recent meeting approved the purchase of two new school buses, both 60 passenger size. The chassis for the buses will be purchased from Black Chevrolet - Oldsmobile and the bodies from Carpenter Body Co.

In other action permission was granted to participate in the Greene County film library program. The library will be in the county superintendent's office in Carrollton and Carrollton and Greenfield units will also participate in the program. The board acted on obligating funds for Title II of the elementary and secondary education act in the amount of $4,436.60, the money to be used in securing library resource material.

During the executive session a candidate for superintendent of the unit was interviewed. The board also approved the annual exchange of electrical appliances for the home economics department. Four ranges, a refrigerator, washer and dryer will be exchanged with Clark Company here. A new IBM clock was purchased for the gym.

NAME NOMINATING COMMITTEE FOR LEGION POST 279

The Jacksonville American Legion Post No. 279 elected a nominating committee at a meeting held May 3 at the Legion Home. Members of the committee, Clarence Stallings, Lloyd Slagle, Oscar Gronseth, A. S. Armstrong and Glenn E. Skinner, will present a slate of candidates at the first meeting in June. Other nominations will be called for from the floor and the election of officers will be held at the second meeting in June.

Commander Frank Slagle presided at the meeting; Sergeant-at-arms Russell Armstrong posted colors and Chaplain Glenn E. Skinner gave the invocation. The minutes as read by Adjutant Brennan were approved. Ed Graubner, member of the post living in Texas was introduced by Commander Slagle. Joe Palsgrove, senior vice commander, reported on membership.

Lloyd Slagle stated that school medal awards will again be given at Alexander Grade school, Illinois School for the Deaf, Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School, Our Saviour's, Jonathan Turner and Salem Lutheran.

John Dearing and Russell Barton were reinstated as members. Albert Armitage was reported a patient at Passavant hospital.

Announcement was made that Poppy Day is scheduled for May 27-28; the post will place flags on the graves of veterans on Memorial Day and will also participate in the parade. Members were urged to march in the parade and to volunteer to sell poppies.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 17 in the Legion Home.

Clarence Lovett Of Franklin Dies

Clarence C. Lovett, 69, of Franklin, died at 5:30 a.m. Sunday at Passavant hospital where he had been a patient three days. He was a retired school janitor.

Fatal Sidewalk Gumbattle Seen As Vending War

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—A sidewalk gumbattle in which a man was slain last month appears to have involved efforts by St. Louis-area interests to take over vending machine operations in Cairo, a sheriff said today.

Sheriff Earl Shepard Jr. of Alexander County said officials are certain representatives of Frank (Buster) Wortman's East St. Louis organization are trying to win control of vending machine contracts in Southern Illinois.

"There must be a lucrative business in pinball and other coin-operated machines to attract them," he said. "We are not sure how much local vendors are being affected."

A grand jury convenes Tuesday to consider charges against four men in the fatal shooting April 13 of David Coughlin, 37, who died as he sat in a car near a Cairo tavern.

A companion, Charles Thompson, 50, operator of the tavern, was wounded. The men charged in the incident are from the St. Louis-East St. Louis area.

One of them is John Anselmo, 36, reportedly a former operator of a Wortman tavern in East St. Louis and an official of the bartenders and waitresses local of East St. Louis.

Shepherd said the pressure of East St. Louis interests have been felt in Alexander, Pulaski and Massac counties since March.

It is not certain, he said, whether recent tavern fires involving arson or the 1965 bombing of a warehouse are linked to the vending machine competition.

RESCUE FISHERMEN

TOKYO (AP)—A U. S. plane spotted all 22 crewmen of the 39-ton Japanese fishing boat No. 3 Yuryo Maru today drifting on life rafts some 200 miles south of Tokyo.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville N. Foreman of Jacksonville, he is married to the former Judith Ann Bosserman, and they have a son Timothy and a daughter Emily.

His program will include "Three Folk songs of British Isles," by Benjamin Britten; "Five Songs," by Gustav Mahler; "Four Songs of Don Quixote," by Jacques Ibert; and "Eight Hungarian Folk songs" by Bela Bartok.

The accompanist will be R. John Specht.

WHITE HALL UPS SEWER ASSESSMENT SERVICE CHARGE

WHITE HALL — The City Council at its meeting May 3 voted to increase the city sewer assessment service charge from fifty cents to one dollar for buildings housing four or less apartments, with an additional $1.00 for each additional four apartments or any part thereof.

The council also passed ordinance No. 452 stating that all utilities and streets must be laid to the edge of the property and stubbed.

Upon request of Stanley Thomas, representing the Lions Club, the council voted to sponsor the appearance of the Black Knight Drum and Bugle Corps of Belleville in the annual Lions president's parade July 1st.

The sum of $900 was voted for sponsorship of the Khoury League baseball in White Hall. Harold Seymore was named league commissioner.

The building of a road to the lower pump house at the city reservoir, east of the city, was approved. Since the road will require a bridge, the purchase of 24 feet of 30 inch bridge pipe at a cost of $192.00 was also approved.
